FRONT COVER

Tilly Whim Caves

The caves were formed by quarrying during the Napoleonic wars, the stone being used for the many fortifications built along the South coast. After Napoleon's disastrous Russian campaign demand dwindled and the quarries closed in 1812. The caves were reopened via an alternative entrance in 1887 by George Burt to attract visitors to his Durlston estate. By 1975 the condition of the caves led to their closure; the many roof falls in the intervening years have worsened the condition and they are now extremely perilous. Only the foolhardy, bats and birds now venture into the caves. There are similar (externally) caves at Winspit which are still accessible, but I have no idea of the size relative to Tilly Whim. In those caves there are unsupported roof spans of about ten metres.

Current and archived results, Gas & Air, averages etc., are also published in PDF format on www.dsrpa.co.uk

The DSRPA also organize Gallery/Sport Rifle Leagues. If you're interested ask for your name to be added to the contact list for this discipline.
