FRONT COVER

Horton Tower

Standing at seven floors and about 150' (45 mtrs) high the tower was built by the Lord of the Manor, Humphrey Sturt in 1750, and is believed to be the highest non-religious building in Britain at that time. Also known as Sturt's folly, the reason for its original construction remains unclear, but was obviously of some importance to its builder. Rumour has it that it was built without scaffolding, the builders standing on the walls as they were raised.

The original domed roof has long since gone, which in turn resulted in all six timber floors rotting away. The tower is now open from top to bottom, with just a caged ladder providing access to the upper areas.. In recent years, the tower has become home to Vodaphone mobile phone signal masts, presumably in exchange for ongoing maintenance works. Aerial photographs show a metal roof also probably installed by Vodaphone.

Current and archived results, Gas & Air, averages etc., are also published in PDF format on www.dsrpa.co.uk

The DSRPA also organize Gallery/Sport Rifle Leagues. If you're interested ask for your name to be added to the contact list for this discipline.
